A Word from the President

Dr. and Mrs. W. Edward Rickman

Gazing out over the landscape of the Vennard College campus one is struck with the beauty, the strength, and the upward reaching glory of literally hundreds of trees. There are all shapes, sizes, and varieties with individual blossoms or foliage according to their type. The one common denominator is "life" which depends on rich soil and adequate moisture.

The Vennard College family members also stand tall and strong and alive in Jesus Christ. Because of the individual lives, the College itself can be described as "Like a Tree Planted by the Waters." The strength and life derived from the Divine power makes this school a "Tree of His own Planting."

"Like a Tree"

Psalm 1:3a

September 1998

Suddenly the Summer was gone--the weather changed quickly--and then, wonder of wonders, the snow began to fall. The leaves were still on the trees. The date was October 26, 1997. The snow was wet and heavy and as it began to pile up on the leaves and limbs, the sound of breaking branches began to make hundreds of cracking sounds like a war zone. The falling limbs and trees soon began to block streets and sidewalks, and the city of Oskaloosa/University Park, Iowa came to a standstill. Within 24 hours, the heavy, wet snow coupled with strong winds had totally changed the landscape. Now there was destruction everywhere. It took more than 3 months to clean up the city, including the Vennard Campus.

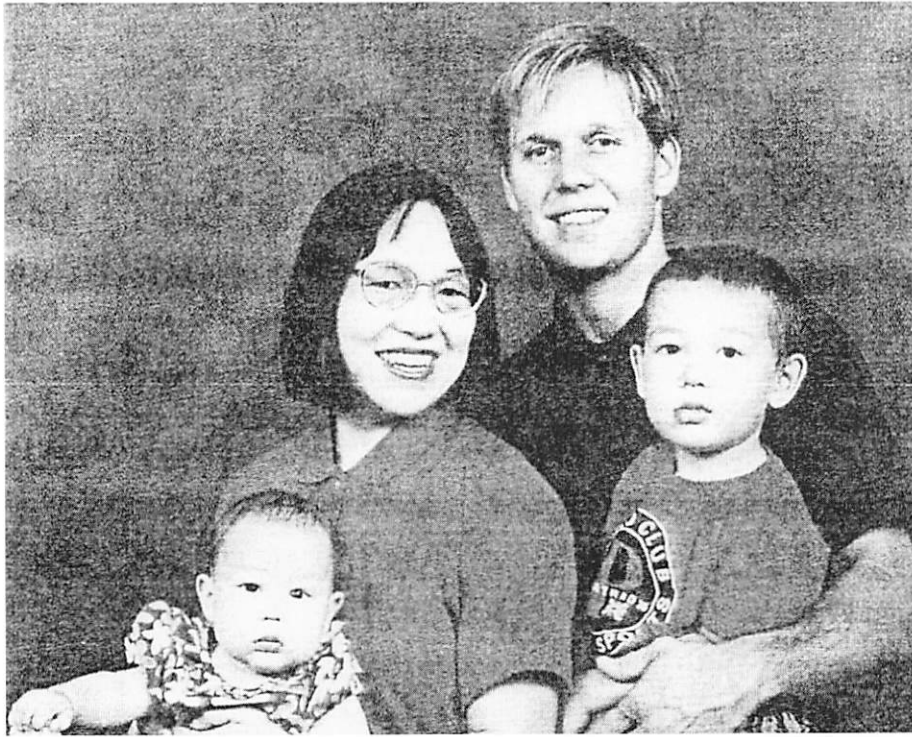

Today I look out the window at the beautiful trees that grace our Campus and I can only see a few evidences of that devastation that was so apparent just months ago. The healing and beautiful new growth have overshadowed all the past destruction. What an amazing God who made all this possible.

That's a picture of what has happened to this College over the past three years. Following the devastation of closure, the Campus stood bare and stripped of all its life and vitality. It appeared as though there was no possibility of revival or renewed life, vitality, productivity, or glorious beauty. But obviously, God had other plans for this "Vine of His own planting?" which had survived for some 86 years through storms and trials, and yes, even at times, devastation. Today, we stand on this Campus surrounded by innumerable points of evidence that God has breathed new life into this College and new beauty into this Campus. It is certainly a wonder to behold!

Two years ago, the theme of the President's Convocation was "On the Wings of Eagles." At that time, this faith venture was based on the known fact that God would have to do for us as He did for the children of Israel as declared in Exodus 19:4: "I carried you on eagles' wings and brought you to myself." I believe in these two years that God has brought us to a point of stature and stability that can be described "like a tree planted by streams of water." What a great picture! There is in that picture the assurance of stability, hope for the future, and promise of sustaining and flourishing growth that will not wither. That's the promise we can take to the bank. God has not failed! He is not failing! This vine of His own planting will flourish "like a tree planted by streams of water" as we continue to obey Him. May God be praised and long live Vennard College!

John & Masako Trosen, Isaiah & Sophia

Each year the yearbook staff evaluates to whom the yearbook should be dedicated. Every year is the same difficult decision: who has given their life in service to the College and/or to the furthering of the Kingdom of God? Each year the staff is presented with a list of well-deserving recipients, yet the difficulty comes in selecting just one. This year, however, the decision was made slightly easier. The staff voted unanimously to dedicate the 1999 yearbook to World Gospel Mission missionary pilots to Bolivia: John & Masako Trosen and their two children, Isaiah and Sophia. John and Masako are both recent graduates of Vennard College (John, 1995 and Masako, 1992). On September 28, 1998 while enroute on a return flight from a jungle village with a young pastor and two Bolivian seminary students, the Wings of Peace plane John was flying failed to report in. As soon as this report hit the World Gospel Mission Headquarters in Marion, IN, a world-wide prayer effort was launched for the Trosens and their passengers via a prayer request on WGM's Home Page. Search teams were immediately organized, with air searches being conducted first. Emergency health personnel were on call in case the plane was found. However, bad weather forced the searching and rescue effort to stop for several days. After several desperate days and weeks of searching with no discovery of the plane, the search was called off. World Gospel Mission, then, labeled them as officially "Missing in Action." We thank the Trosens for their willingness to answer the call to take the Gospel into the "uttermost part of the world." Their love for God and obedience to His will for their lives will shine as an example before us. May we be as obedient as they. It is with love and pride that we, the 1999 yearbook staff, do hereby dedicate the yearbook to the John and Masako Trosen Family.

Learning is an Adventure

Classes at Vennard College are not the typical "ho-hum" scenarios found at other institutions of higher education. Student involvement in class is greatly encouraged. Professors plan for a multitude of events to enrich the student's learning experience. Some of these events include inviting guest lecturers to speak in classes, taking a trip to a Trappist Monastery, taking a field trip to the Iow Religious Media Library, and a host of other events. It is the desire of the faculty that students learn as much as they can while at Vennard College. This is why a lot of classes have incorporated practical experience as well as theory.

Mr. Stephen Mills, Academic Dean 1996-1999

It seems fitting to conclude this portion dealing with academic life to honor the man who has faithfully served as Academic Dean. Mr. Steve Mills has served the College in this capacity since the College re-opened in the Fall of 1996. While teaching is his first love, he has led this institution in the development and implementation of a challenging academic program. His focus on "meaning and significance" filters its way down from the administration, to the classroom, to his personal and spiritual life. After three years of serving as Academic Dean, Steve Mills is stepping down to return to the classroom full-time. In addition to serving as Academic Dean, Steve Mills pastors Union Community Church, and has a family: wife, Cindy and sons, Brian and David. Steve Mills is an avid runner. Thank you Mr. Mills.

A young college student, Er Magnuson, creatively designed a large tree painstakingly cut out of black paper. His knife fashioned minute, intricate leaves and multi-limbed branches. The branches were filled with many varieties of small birds and animals. The complete masterpiece was cut from one huge piece of paper. To those of us unskilled in that particular art, it was an unbelievable sight to see the finished, silhouetted tree with its diverse "inhabitants."

Even having this memory indelibly etched in my brain the past twenty some years, I am still aware that "only God can make a tree." And so it is with each student coming to Vennard College. The many planned activities and those that are more spontaneous in nature are to be part of an educational "life experience" centered around the Word and the Lord. When this happens, the student can be "like a tree planted by streams of water, that yields its fruit in season..."

Thanksgiving Vespers

“Lord God, [we] don’t deserve what you have already done for us, and yet you have promised to do even more for us...No other god is like you, LORD--you alone are God...”
I Chronicles 17:16c-17a, 20a (CEV)

Thanksgiving Vespers is a time-honored tradition observed by the Vennard College Family. This event is sponsored by the VMA (Vennard Ministerial Association). It includes a banquet followed by a short program. This year’s program was a monologue performed by Professor and Academic Dean Mr. Steve Mills. He played the part of an unthankful Pilgrim during the time of the first Thanksgiving. Through a series of events and thoughts the Pilgrim discovers the “meaning and significance” of being thankful and giving thanks for the blessings bestowed on him and others by God. Another feature of Vespers is the taking of a “love offering.” In year’s past, the offering went to Bethany Children’s Home in Kentucky to help them celebrate Christmas. This year, however, the proceeds of the offering went to help World Gospel Mission’s relief efforts in South America following the tragedy of Hurricane Mitch. Thanksgiving Vespers is a ministry of the Vennard College family to reflect on the blessings of God to each one as individuals and to the corporate body.

Jessop-Bruner Library receives Face-Lift

This was a year of change and developments for Jessop-Bruner Library. During Christmas Break, the Library's interior received a fresh coat (or should we say 4 coats) of white paint. This was done by a couple of volunteers. The gold paint put on the walls at the time of construction in the mid 70's was finally gone. A member of the Library staff was reportedly heard to say, "It even makes this awful orange carpet look better!"

The Library also received five new units of shelving allowing for the expansion of the Reference and Periodicals Back Issues collections. A counter was built below the stairs to provide space for the online catalog and internet computer. The Library staff worked steadily on converting the holdings from the card catalog into the online catalog. This project should be complete by the time classes resume in the Fall.

Fall 1999 Revival

The year's speaker for the week of meetings was Dr. Jim Diehl, one of nine General Superintendents in the Church of the Nazarene. His use of humor and illustrations from his years in the pastorate served well to hit home scriptural truths.

1999

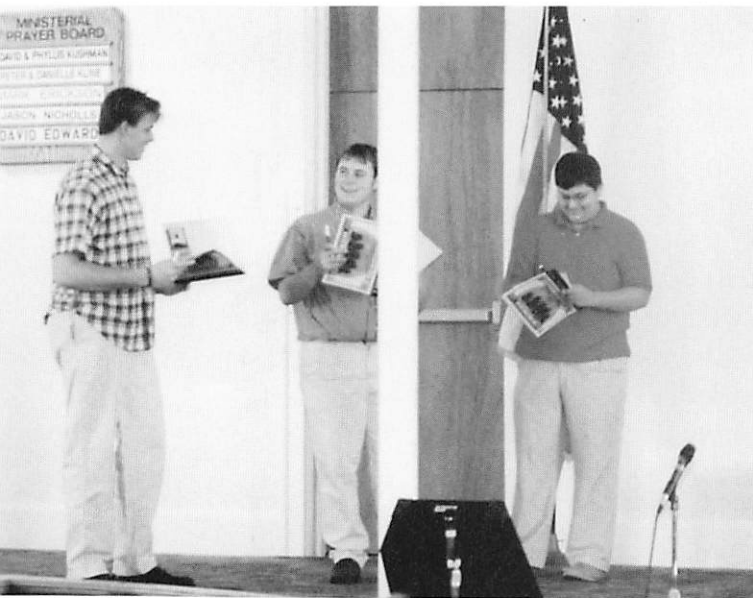

The Fall 1998 Missions Convention brought the richness of experience of three missionaries representing various countries and organizations. The first speaker, Nathan Schmidt, is a missionary under appointment to Bolivia with World Gospel Mission. During the Missions Banquet, he also shared with us his slide presentation of the Bolivian people who so desperately need to hear about the love of Jesus Christ. The second speaker, Kent Eller, is with the Men for Missions arm of Oriental Missions Society. He shared about several opportunities available for short-term missions. The third speaker, Carol Lister, is a retired missionary. She served under the auspices of World Gospel Mission in Africa and Haiti. She provided a humorous, yet realistic look at the world of mission work. Each speaker brought with them the urgency of spreading the gospel of Jesus Christ to a lost and dying world.
