“My son, if your heart is wise, My heart will indeed rejoice.

My innermost being will cheer when your lips say what is right.

Proverbs 23:15, 16; HCSB

It is extremely vital that in studying both Testaments of the Bible, one retains a careful distinction between the concept of the intellect as it is in the Greek mind on the one hand, and in the Hebrew mind on the other hand. In the Greek mind the ethical dynamic of a life philosophy rested in the intellect. That is, if a person could achieve perfect or even greater knowledge he could live a very good life, and even be pleasing to the deities, which, of course were not the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. In other words, for the Greek mind, knowledge was virtue. However, in the Hebrew mind the concept of wisdom, חָכְמָה (hăkēmāh), is focused on the human will being in subjection to the divine will, particularly in practical matters of one’s lifestyle.

Therefore, wisdom in the Hebrew Old Testament, was not theoretical, but intensely practical. It was based on the revealed principles of right and wrong as life is lived out day by day. This is what is basic in such great documents as the Ten Commandments, as well as the passages of Divine instruction given to the people of Israel. Wisdom in the Hebrew mind is not a matter of intellect. It is viewing life from God’s perspective. In its final essence, wisdom is one’s life-expression according to the instructions stated by God in His Word.

Throughout the Book of Proverbs, the word “wisdom” is used to identify a key thought. The Hebrew word is חָכְמָה (hăkēmāh) meaning “wisdom” from the verb חָכַם (hăkam) meaning “to make wise.” In the Theological Wordbook of the Old Testament, Volume 1, Hebrew scholars R. Laird Harris, Gleason L. Archer, Jr., and Bruce K. Waltke note the basic concept inhering in this verb focuses on “a manner of thinking and attitude concerning life’s experiences...including matters of general interest and basic morality.” (Vol 1, p 282)

Philosophers have spent a great amount of time and intellectual energy trying to define wisdom. I am not a philosopher by academic training, but through my personal research, reading, and reasoning, offer a rather simple definition of wisdom in the Christian context. Wisdom is the God-given ability to discern what is true or right, by utilizing knowledge and understanding of truth, common sense, and insight related to and gleaned from God’s Word under the instructional aid of the Holy Spirit, and applying the result to life’s experiences through sensible decisions and judgments. In the text verses listed above, Proverbs 23:15, 16, we have the evidence of wisdom residing in one’s inner being ... mind and emotions, and then flowing outwardly through speaking the truth.

Please recall that throughout the Book of Proverbs, the key to individual Proverbs is in the meaning of the word wisdom as defined above. The following are 22 key Proverbs that by their content, speak to the practicality of wisdom in our everyday lives. In some, one finds doctrinal truth vital to our faith. Remember: Wisdom is the ability to apply truth to one’s daily life experiences!

the fruit of her hands. And let her own works praise her in the gates. (Proverbs 31:30, 31)

In 1925 Kate B. Wilkinson wrote the lyrics, and A. Cyril Barham-Gould the musical score for a challenging hymn, not sung frequently enough! I trust it will seal this Devotional study to your heart.

MAY THE MIND OF CHRIST, MY SAVIOR

1. May the mind of Christ my Savior, live in me from day to day,
By His love and pow'r controlling all I do and say.
2. May the Word of God dwell richly in my heart from hour to hour,
So that all may see I triumph only thro' His pow'r.
3. May the peace of God my Father rule my life in ev'rything,
That I may be calm to comfort sick and sorrowing.
4. May the love of Jesus fill me as the waters fill the sea;
Him exalting, self-abasing – this is victory.
5. May I run the race before me, strong and brave to face the foe,
Looking only unto Jesus as I onward go.
6. May His beauty rest upon me as I seek the lost to win;
And may they forget the channel, seeing only Him.
